Dear Mr. Casey:

I would like to express my appreciation for the outstanding presentation one of your officers, Lieutenant [redacted] made on March 19, 1985 to our Command and General Staff College students. It was professionally rewarding for our students to hear [redacted] discuss low intensity conflict. His keynote address, which began our 32-hour block on Low Intensity Conflict, was very stimulating and opened this important topic in a positive, thought-provoking fashion.

[redacted] ability to link current doctrinal concepts to real world problems gave our students a unique perspective on this timely subject. The fact that he is a well-qualified, straight-shooting expert on low intensity conflict was apparent to all and did much to enhance the credibility of the presentation.

We could not have asked for a better speaker to introduce our course. Thank you for making him available to us.

Sincerely,

Dave R. Palmer
Major General, U.S. Army
Deputy Commandant
